

George Darling Retirement Announcement

Company Update No. 20-0608

George Darling, one of New York Bus Sales longest serving employees, has decided to retire at the end of June 2020. This truly is a bittersweet occasion as we are very happy for our friend to start the next chapter in his life yet saddened that such a good person is leaving the company.

George started with New York Bus Sales in April of 1987 and worked as the Service Manager for 15 years, then transitioned into a bus sales representative for the past 18 years. If you have been to an industry trade show in the past 3 decades or so, you probably know George.

We have been planning for George's retirement for some time which allows us to immediately and happily announce that JJ Richmond will assume all of George's territory and customers while retaining his current territory and customers. While JJ has big shoes to fill, we are confident he will not miss a beat as JJ has been with New York Bus Sales for 27 years himself. JJ has worked in both our Service & Parts departments before joining the Sales department and started selling buses 13 years ago.

Over the next few weeks George & JJ will be scheduling, in advance, visits with customers to finalize the transition. In the interim please feel free to reach out to George to wish him well.

George, thank you for a lifetime of commitment to New York Bus Sales and the school bus industry. Congratulations on a successful career and a life well lived!
