“Weep” hole in GM Propane Muffler from AutoJet

- Complaint – There is what appears to be a “welded” weep hole in the front “cover” of the muffler – Please see photos #1 & #2
- Cause – During production, the weep hole was mis-drilled in this location. To address this they welded the holes and re-drilled the holes on the case towards the bottom (Figure #3)
- Correction – No Correction Needed

PLEASE NOTE – With the weather conditions being as cold as they have been over the past couple of weeks, you may note what appears to be an excessive amount of water coming from the weep hole. This is normal in cold weather as there is much more condensation!
